Rodent Eradication Program Gets Farm Bureau Approval

Fulton County, Hickman and Clinton To Start Drive Against Rats.

All-out war has been declared against rats in Fulton county by the Farm Bureau. The Hickman Lions Club and the Clinton Rotary Club are sponsoring a drive against rodents in Hickman and Clinton. So the tale of the Pied Piper grows, and there should be fewer rats in this vicinity—except for the city of Fulton where no action has been taken by local civic groups.

L. C. Whitehead, of the University of North Carolina, and with the Fish and Wildlife Docket Control Department, will head the drive in Fulton county, according to Harry Barry of the Health Department.

Letters are being sent out by the Fulton County Farm Bureau to all members urging them to co-operate in the campaign to eradicate rats, which cause thousands of dollars in damages to crops, feeds, property every year, to say nothing of the diseases they carry and menace to public health.

Three pound packages of specially-prepared poison will be provided for all homes desiring to co-operate in the program. These packages, in a community-wide offer, only cost $1.00, and bear the date when to put out.

DRESS UP HOME FOR BETTER LIVING

Home grounds can be improved with very little cash outlay by using native plants and utilizing labor when it is not needed for regular farm tasks, say specialists of the Extension Service, U. T. College of Agriculture.

Improving and landscaping the grounds will make the family home more attractive and will make for better living, it is pointed out. Planting the yard in grass will improve the looks of the home materially, and help save soil and help prevent sickness. Grass in the yard helps keep down mud and dust which carries cold germs and other diseases.

Before undertaking any landscape work, it is emphasized, complete plans should be made to make sure the final arrangement will be convenient as well as attractive.

THE AMERICAN WAY

By George Ford

INCENTIVE

It becomes increasingly apparent that all too few present-day Americans realize the dynamic force of INCENTIVE, and the tremendous part it has played in creating here the greatest productive economy and the finest social system in world history.

And there is nothing mysterious about INCENTIVE—it is quite easy to understand and from that understanding to appreciate why it contributes so much to human welfare wherever it is allowed to operate. When INCENTIVE is in action, the more work one does, or the better work one does, the greater reward one receives. It's just as simple as that.

Many times in this column I have pointed out that even Josef Stalin recognizes the value of INCENTIVE. When he became Dictator of Russia, practically the first thing he did, was to proclaim that the worker who worked harder or better was to have better food, better clothing, a better home to live in, etc., than his less industrious and less skillful fellow-worker.

But there is a force at work in America which deliberately or mistakenly is trying to destroy IN-CENTIVE, working through our Federal Government. When the Government, through taxation withholds or withdraws money from a worker, even though such levies are used to provide him with goods and services, there is less incentive left to induce him to do more or better work. The reasons for this are obvious. The goods and services thus provided by government are available to him without any need for more or better work on his part, and in many cases those goods and services are not what he would choose if he had freedom of choice.

Money deducted from wages and taken from employers for such things as social security and unemployment benefits, may contribute to a worker's welfare and security but it does take away considerable of his INCENTIVE to do more and better work.

It follows therefore, that if the Federal Government should undertake to give additional goods and services, such as is contemplated under the proposed free medical and hospitalization legislation, it will be forced to take more money out of the pay envelopes of the workers and from employers. And in rendering these additional services, the workers' INCENTIVE to do more or better work will be further decreased.

The reward for doing more or better work cannot be greater than the value added to the work. When a man whose work was worth $60 a week begins to produce work worth $75 a week, unfortunately under the present set-up, he cannot be given a fair share of the additional $15. The tax collector is on hand to take a slice of that $15. While it is true that he gets more benefits for those tax deductions, he would still get them even if he didn't work the extra $15 worth. Thus incentive is at least partially destroyed.

The danger inherent in this is that there is a point at which deductions from wages would become so great that INCENTIVE would be wiped out. There lies the fundamental defect of all public services paid out of taxes or by any kind of compulsory levy. These taxes or levies purchase for the worker services and things that he may wish to have, or that may be good for him, but they decrease the amount of money which he otherwise would have available to spend on the things he personally wants.

Only money which the worker can earn to spend personally is an INCENTIVE to him to work harder and better. No One Ever Heard of Anyone Working Harder or Better In Order To Be Able To Pay More Taxes. Yes, definitely, there is a limit to how much of the worker's wages can be withdrawn in taxes and levies, without completely destroying his INCENTIVE to do more and better work. And if we ever reach that limit where INCENTIVE is a "dead pigeon," it will mean economic and social suicide for America.

THE LOW DOWN FROM HICKORY GROVE

Well folks the topic today is, "Should we make the Govt. better vs. just bigger and showier like we been doing for a dog's age." If folks were getting happier and more contented under Big Govt. I would say, okay. But as it is, with more murders, more taxes, more divorces, more delinquency, less tranquility, fewer Kansas City steaks—it is time to look under the covers. And that item, of K.C. steaks, I hark back to when the Santa Fe served a 6-bit dinner at its scrumptious eating houses. The hotel manager himself, with a platter of sizzling steaks on the crook of his elbow, asked you which one—a big one or a smaller one.

Govt. is now so big that it is stumbling over its own feet. Take housing. One Top Kick says rents should come down ten per cent. Uncle Harry says, tut-tut 'taint so. And right here at Hickory there are two weather outfits. One says, tonight it will rain and be warmer. The other gent says for the fruit and vegetable folks to get their heaters going—it will frost. And next day we find neither rain nor frost—and both gents are in the weather dog-house.

And in your own affairs, there is some Govt. guy waiting you or telling you what is best to do or vice versa, and you know for sure that he is just guessing—or reading out of some book. My proposal is, cut 50 per cent off all budgets—see what happens then to the Govt. and us. Steaks might even get bigger. And the weather does as it pleases anyway.

ARE YOU PLANNING?

TO BUILD? Wiring is the network of nerves that can make your new home a dream home. Adequate wiring will enable you to enjoy the benefits and convenience of our electrical future. No more groping for switches in the dark room, no more blown fuses from overloaded circuits, and no more planning a room to conform to too few outlets. You will be able to arrange floor and table lamps as you wish, with a receptacle always handy.

When you build, wire ahead. Let us help you lay out your wiring so that no matter what new electrical servants science designs for your home of tomorrow, you'll always be ready for them. And don't forget, adequate wiring will keep your home modern, will enable you to sell and rent it more easily, and for more money.

TO REDECORATE? The beauty and charm of redecorating can be multiplied by a few changes in the home's lighting. But new lamps, new furniture, and new ideas can be spoiled by an unsightly, unsafe tangle of extension cords. More convenience outlets and added circuits are the answer. Perhaps you'd like one switch to control all your floor and table lamps, while another operates your overhead lights.

TO MODERNIZE? Whether your remodeling plans include only a new all-electric kitchen, a streamlined laundry, or a new addition to the house, remember it will cost only a trifle more to modernize the home's entire wiring system, adding new circuits, outlets, and switches as needed. Kitchens and laundries need their own wiring circuits, to give full power and speed to your new appliances, and to eliminate crackling radios and blinking lights when motor appliances start. Adequate wiring is the key to modern electric living.

It Pays To Wire Ahead

KY. VETERANS STILL THE PRICE OF WAR

The disease causing more sickness during the war than any other and the one disease responsible for more relapses in malaria—the number one disease problem of World War II. In Fulton county 17 per cent of the cases investigated were found to be malaria relapses in veterans who contracted the disease while in the armed forces. Veterans are still paying the price of war.

Chills and fever felt the first time in such far away places as Burma, China, Bataan, Corregidor, Tunisia, Iran and India are being felt again by soldiers returned to their western Kentucky homes. Last year a malaria control program was carried out in the most malarious sections of the county. One of its main objectives was to prevent the spread of foreign strains of malaria from veterans, and statistics on cases reported last year seem to indicate that this objective has been achieved. Instead of an increase in malaria, the number of cases reported last year is 248 less than the number reported in 1945. In spite of the threat of an increase in malaria with the return of veterans, the health department has fought a winning battle and is well along its way to conquering "the greatest disease enemy of the county."

Due to the bad weather and illness the deadline on signing up for the DDT spraying has been extended another ten days.

The Homemakers Clubs are giving their time to this valuable program and urge you to sign up 10 per cent in Fulton county.

Spraying will be conducted in the county and in the cities of Hickman and Fulton.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

For a different way of preparing eggs, try this cheese sandwich and custard combination. Tasty and attractive baked to a golden brown, it is a substantial main dish for supper or lunch. A reminder from food specialists at UK College of Agriculture and Home Economics is that all cheese and egg dishes must be baked at low to medium temperatures for best results.

RUSSELL PUCKETT WRITES: BACK HOME FROM JAPAN

This poem was sent in by Pvt. Russell Puckett, who is serving with the 6th Division in Yosui, Koera:

ARMY LIFE

I am sitting here thinking of the days I left behind,
And I think I will put on paper what I have in mind.

People on the outside think a soldier's life is swell,
But I will let you in on something fellow, a soldier's life is hell.
A soldier's got one consolation tho, gather close and I will tell;
When I die I will go to heaven, cause I have served my stretch in hell.

I've scrubbed a million pots and pans, and chipped a lot of paint;
A meaner place this side of hell, I swear I know there ain't.

I've stood for many hours just to get my mail,
And stood a million guard mounts and as many special details;

I've shined a million miles of brass and scrubbed my dirty duds;
I've swung a million picks, and peeled a million spuds;

I've cruised a million miles and I've made a million posts;

I've spent the night in dirty briggs just trying to be a sport.

But when those final taps have

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Substance" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, March 16, 1947.

The Golden Text is: "God is able to make all grace abound toward you; that ye, always having all things, may abound to every good work." (II Cor. 9:8)

Among the citations which comprise the lesson sermon is the following from the Bible: "Thine, O Lord, is the greatness, and the Power, and the glory and the victory and the majesty." (I Chorn. 29:11)

The lesson sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy: "What is substance? Substance is that which is eternal and incapable of discolor and decay. Truth, life, and love are substance, as the Scriptures use this word in Hebrews: 'The substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen.'" (P. 468)

Snuff out cigarettes and matches lest they snuff out a life.

Well fed cows ring the bell, but not one hung on their necks.

Sally Simpkins says she can work longer when she does more of it while sitting.

The farmer who saves farm labor is saving one of the most expensive things a farmer buys.

If Mr. Micawber is still "looking for something to turn up," he can start with the spring garden.

Farm people cannot do their work the hard way and still produce one-fourth more goods with one-fifth less labor.

Silo Simpkins III says he is going to cop the toy box in the Rural Progress Show to save time, save toys, save stumbles, and save tots from getting spanked.

A garden does not determine a family's food habits, but it makes them cheaper.

The farmer who lets gullies take his fields has let his thinking get into a rut.

A good farm hand is one who can work rings around a competitor, not blow smoke rings around him.

Planning the farm operations for only one year is not conducive to substantial profits in the years ahead.

A short supply of fertilizer can be stretched to meet the needs if it is used most efficiently, agronomists say.

FIRST THINGS

Lettuce—Among the first things to be started is lettuce. There is nothing particularly new about making a lettuce bed, except that if heading types, such as Bibb, Imperial or one of the "butter" kinds are used, "salad" lettuce is produced quite as well as with the leaf sorts, Simpson or Grand Rapids, and four leaf seedlings may be lifted and reset 8 inches apart to make fine head lettuce later.

The soil should be extremely rich, as with dropping-board poultry manure, one bushel to 300 sq. feet, or with used poultry house litter, twice that amount. Or ammonium nitrate may be used, three pounds on the same space. Either fertilizer should be chopped in, and it would be best to have on rainfall before seeding is done.

Onions.—Next come onions, and the earlier planted the better, as onions make their best growth before the weather has become warm. Yellow sets (of Danvers or Southports variety) are standard, but if possible, the sets should be no larger than three-fourths of an inch as larger sets make a high percentage of stiff-necked onions that go to seed. Slips of Spanish type varieties may be used, too, but such onions do not store well, except in cold storage 50 degrees. As with lettuce, the soil should be of utmost fertility.

HEALTHY BABY CHICKS
BEST MONEY MAKERS

Following are some simple rules to follow in brooding and feeding chicks:

1. Clean brooder houses, brooders, feeders and drinking vessels two to three weeks before starting chicks—scrape, sweep, scrub and spray.

2. Operate brooder two to three days before chicks arrive, to regulate brooder and to dry house and litter.

3. Cover brooder house floor with dry absorbent litter and cover litter for two or three days until the chicks learn to eat.

4. Place guard around brooder about 2 feet from edge of house, for first week. Regulate brooder at about 95 degrees first week—lower temperature about 5 degrees each week.

5. Use commercial chick starter or feed chick the grain for first two days—then starter for about six weeks.

6. Keep feed and water available at all times. Provide plenty of ventilation and give chicks direct sunlight as early as possible.

Excitable men and women continue attempts to destroy so-called "capitalism." That is a mess on our doorsteps.

THE AMERICAN DOLLAR

The American dollar, as all of our 140,000,000 people must have discovered by this time, has shrunk woefully so far as purchasing power is concerned. Measured in terms of the cost of most goods and services, it will do about half the work it did a few short years ago.
Despite that, the world is seeking the dollar more eagerly than ever —and abroad, a nation's strength and hopes for the future are pretty largely determined by its ability to do business in American currency.

It is probably true that no one completely understands what might be described as "the great international monetary circus. Newsweek, for instance, recently ran a long article on world money. In preparation, the magazine recounts, it asked a veteran banker and former high public official to clear up some of the obscurities. The banker smiled and answered, "Don't you think that I ought to make it clear to myself first?" The subject is so enormously complicated, so subject to sudden change, that the human mind has a natural tendency to reel when it attacks it.

The world's insatiable appetite for American dollars is easily understood. First, even our 50c dollar is the strongest currency in common use. Second, and more important from the foreign point of view, the dollar is the medium of exchange in the world's principal producing and exporting nation. In other words, the dollar means food, machines, manufactured goods—all the thousand and one things impoverished nations must have if their people are to live and their industries are to be re-established. Stricken nations will go to almost any length to protect or improve their dollar position.

That is the main reason for the insane currency-exchange situation. Today, the value of all currencies (with a very few unimportant exceptions) is fixed by their governments when it comes to exchanging them for the currencies of other countries. It is obvious that if a government can fix its currency at a high level in terms of dollars its economic position will be bettered, at least theoretically. And that practice has been the direct cause of the creation of black markets, unofficial exchange where currencies tend to find their own level, regardless of their officially established value. The world is full of examples of this.
For instance, at the official rate, less than ten Austrian shillings will buy one American dollar—on the black market a dollar brings 58 shillings. The French franc is pegged officially at 119 to the dollar—but it is 290 to the dollar on the flourishing illegal market. An American dollar, says the Chinese government, will buy only 3,350 Chinese dollars—actually, it will buy as much as 19,000 if you shop at the unofficial exchanges.

The difficulties this chaotic situation imposes on international trade are endless and innumerable.
And that is only the beginning. In some countries, governments will not permit American exporters to withdraw any of the money received from sales. In other words they can withdraw only a part of it—often at an extremely disadvantageous rate of exchange. In still others they are subject to heavy special taxes. It all adds up to a permanent headache.

However, under the impetus of our foreign policy, buttressed by heavy loans to foreign countries American exports of goods are extremely high—in 1946 they ran to a value of more than $12,000,000, 000 as against $5,000,000,000 in imports. To quote the Newsweek article "The United States in 1946 provided $7,000,000,000 to cover payment for its own goods shipped abroad. This is only part of the shape of things to come. Loans and credits made or authorized by the United States no total an estimated $10,400,000,000."

What this means is that the United States is doing a very big part of the job of keeping the rest of the world alive—loaning it money to buy our goods. It is doing that both for humanitarian reasons and in the hope that over the years stability will come again to hungry, weary, devastated nations. And the American dollar, symbol of the greatest productive country on earth, reigns supreme.

WHERE IS THE MONEY COMING FROM?

Just how much "social security" can the people afford? The sad part about the drift toward every crackpot plan called social security too few people realize the consequences.

One study estimates that compulsory medical care could be financed by a 4.5 per cent payroll tax—which in itself is no small item to people whose take-home pay is now seriously depleted by various deductions. And this study is based on last year's national income, which hit the stratospheric figure of $161,000,000,000. A child can imagine what would happen in a period of depression, and its sharp decline in payrolls.

Furthermore, in every country where compulsory medical care has been tried, costs have inevitably outrun estimates—and by a wide margin. For one thing, the system is usually extended to pay cash benefits for wage losses resulting from temporary disability. More and more services are demanded and given. People demand medical attention whether they need it or not, on the grounds that they are paying for it and might as well get something back for their money.
Some authorities are convinced that compulsory medical care in his country would cost six billion dollars a year—and perhaps substantially more.

Compulsory medical care would impose a tremendous burden on the workers and employers of the country—and in all probability would impose an additional burden on the public treasury which would be called upon to make up deficits.
It is the wrong approach to a problem which is being rapidly solved by voluntary medical prepayment insurance plans.

THE PUBLIC HEALTH

Within the near future, Congress will begin considering a number of proposed measures designed to improve the public health. And when that time comes, certain definite principles should be kept firmly in mind.

First, nothing must be done that will prevent people from choosing their own doctor. This is basic in sound medical practice.

Second, medicine must not be regimented. The doctor must never be dominated by a government official—required to look to some bureau for his livelihood.

Third, we must avoid the mistake of forcing people to pay for a specified medical service whether they wish it or not. Voluntary prepaid medicine is one thing—compulsory tax payments for a service individuals may not desire is something very different.

Fourth, we must confine Federally financed medicine to care for the needy, so far as treatment of the individual is concerned. It is a proper public service for the taxpayers to underwrite medical care for those who honestly cannot pay for it themselves. It is not a proper service to finance it for those who are perfectly able to pay for it.

Fifth, administration must be accomplished at the local, community level—not at the Washington level, with its inevitable wasteful and inefficient bureaucracies.

The goal should be to preserve private medicine—and at the same time help the indigent. This can

Why freight rates are going up...

Since 1939, railroad employees have had three general pay raises totaling 52 1/10%, and the prices of fuel, materials and supplies have risen 61 1/10%.

But when the war ended in 1945, the railroads were still hauling freight at rates no higher, and in some cases lower, than when the war began.

Without increased revenues, railroads could not meet these costs and also provide improvements in equipment and facilities—improvements that are essential for the low-cost freight and passenger services which are necessary to America's high standard of living.

Under these circumstances—and almost a year after the last major wage increase—the Interstate Commerce Commission recently approved an average increase in freight rates of 17 1/10%.

Of all the price increases in America today, few have been so little and so late as that in the price of railroad transportation.

How important are healthy rail- roads to a prosperous country?

Only when the railroads are financially healthy can they provide the new equipment, improved road beds, and better terminal facilities needed for still better service to you.

The defense of the nation depends upon the continuance of the efficient transportation which served the nation so well in the last war.

The railroads are among the largest employers of labor. They buy over 100,000 different products. They pay big taxes—taxes which are spent not only for public schools, public health, and police and fire protection, but even for highways, airways, airports and inland waterways.

Railroads are America's lifeline—keeping goods flowing among the 48 states day and night in all weather.

They can continue to do this only if there is a reasonable balance between income and outgo. Like yourself, the railroads must make ends meet!

We are publishing this and other advertisements to talk with you at first hand about matters which are important to everybody.

Retonga Was One of My Happiest Experiences

Sometimes Felt Like She Would Have To Endure Distress From Nervous Indigestion The Rest Of Her Days, States Mrs. Huffaker. Eats Anything She Wants Now; Sleeps And Feels Fine Again.

MRS. PEARL HUFFAKER

"The relief Retonga brought me from years of tormenting distress from nervous indigestion was one of the happiest experiences in my life," declares Mrs. Pearl Huffaker, well-known resident of Elkin Ave., Nashville, Tenn.

"I had almost no appetite and after nearly every meal my food seemed to sour almost as soon as I swallowed it. Gas pains were so sharp I sometimes felt like they would cut me in two. Then I would feel upset and high-strung for two or three hours. Lots of nights I was so restless I got only a few 'cat naps' and then when mornings came I felt almost too tired and worn-out to get into my clothes. My elimination was so sluggish that I had to take strong laxatives often. My suffering allowed me little peace day or night.

"Retonga relieved my distress so completely that I now eat everything I want with a fine appetite. I feel calm, sleep soundly every night and get up feeling fully refreshed. Even that terrible sluggish elimination is relieved. I feel like a different person, and I can never thank Retonga enough."

Retonga is intended to relieve distress due to insufficient flow of juices in the stomach, loss of appetite, Vitamin B-1 deficiency and constipation. Accept no substitute. Retonga may be obtained at City Drug Co. in Fulton. adv.
